We regret to learn that Mr. Kilgore, who has so long and successfully carried on the photographing business in this city, has sold his establishment and will soon leave town.

Mr. Castle has contracted with the Bodwell Granite Co. for the castings for a lot of the huge derricks by which granite blocks are moved, to be used at the company's works at Vinalhaven.

At the last meeting of the city government, it was voted to exempt Mathews & Co. from municipal taxation, until the time for taking the state valuation, on any new buildings, additional machinery and lot of land.

When the stereopticon man threw George Quimby's picture on the screen, a chap present exclaimed, "Stokes don't look like a murderer, does he?" It was another conundrum that George couldn't answer.

Next Sunday will be Easter. The day is to be celebrated at the Unitarian Church by the commemoration of the Lord's Supper. In the evening Mr. Utter will lecture to the young folks on wasting time.

Sch. Florida, of this port, Capt. F. A. Gilmore, arrived at New York, April first, in four days and twelve hours from Jacksonville bar. She made the round trip from New York and back in 24 days, with a cargo each way.

Mr. Taft, who kept the gift picture store in Pierce Block, last week, fell from the platform and broke his arm. It took the united strength of four men to put the joint in place, while the patient was under the influence of ether.

Mr. Morrow has closed out his potato business for the season, and left town. He has shipped during the winter 20,000 bushels, of which 15,000 bushels came over the railroad, and 5000 were bought in the streets. He has paid out this season $15,000.

Mr. Frank B. Bickford has made arrangements to go into the manufacture of bricks near the east end of the bridge. He will work the patent machines, employ about fifteen men, and expects to commence early in May. There is an abundance of good clay on the spot, and brick were made there many years ago.

EX-GOVERNOR CROSBY, OF MAINE. This gentleman who has been spending the last three months in this State, visiting all the points of interest in East Florida, and writing graceful letters home for publication, takes his departure towards home to-day. The Governor will spend a few days in Savannah, and thence to Macon, Chattanooga and Louisville, &c., stopping at all the points of interest on the route, intending to reach his home in Belfast, about the 15th of May. [Florida Republican, April 1st.

The city government completed its organization at the meeting on Monday night. Capt. Horace Brackett was elected Port Warden; Milton F. Carter, City Marshall; Capt. Chas. Baker, Chief Engineer; Asa A. Howes, Fire Engineer; and C. P. Carter, Highway Surveyor of the City District. The matter of the Free High School was called up, and it was voted inexpedient to appropriate money for that purpose.

Mrs. William Banks, living on Congress street, had a narrow escape from fatal poisoning on Saturday evening. Intending to take some medicine, she got by mistake a bottle of solution of arsenic, and took a large dose. She was immediately attacked by spasms and terrible burning pains in the throat and stomach. A physician was called, who gave emetics, followed by a dose of antidote to the poison, which soon placed her out of danger.

There was a meeting of the Waldo Agricultural Society in this city on Saturday, at which an exhibit of the Society's financial affairs was made. The indebtness is about $2000. Mr. Daniel L. Pitcher, who undertook to place the society on a new basis by fresh subscriptions, has secured about $1400. It was voted to hold the annual meeting in future on the second day of the fair, and that the exhibition of fancy goods be held in one of the halls in the city.

Captains John Ferguson and Wallace Cunningham did a good thing for the railroad one day last week. As they were walking home to City Point on the railroad track, they found a large rock that had rolled from the bank of a cut just below the Point, and rested on the rail. It had fallen after the passage of the section man, and the evening train would be shortly due. The rock was so large that their united strength could not move it. They went to the Point, got four more men, and rolled the rock out of the way, thus preventing a disaster. Those men should be invited to take a ride on the train.

ALONG THE WHARVES. Business is extremely dull in this department. The bulk of hay and potatoes is in from the country, although the storehouses yet present a good showing of the former. Vessels now leaving are expecting to procure their next freights from Bangor. A quantity of staves yet await transportation, but shipment will necessarily be light for some time. Pitcher & Gorham are loading schs. Allen Lewis and Idella Small with potatoes for Baltimore. Woods, Mathews & Baker have loaded sch. Isis with hay for Boston. Robert Patterson has loaded sch. Wm. G. Eddie with hay and produce for Dix Island. Sch. B. H. Corless has loaded hay and potatoes for Provincetown, Mass. Sch. Victory has discharged a cargo of lime for parties in Skowhegan. Brig Dauntless, 18 days from Cienfuegos, Cuba, has discharged a cargo of molasses for Sibley & Son.

CONCERT. The entertainment given on Tuesday evening by the pupils of Mr. Additton, aided by volunteers, was a decided success. Many of the well known vocalists of our city took part—Mrs. Anna Quimby, Mrs. Ells, the Lancasters, Frederick, Durham, William, Pitcher, and others. The whole programme, consisting of choruses, hymns, glees and solos, was gone through with in a manner that shew careful training of the class on the part of the teacher. Mr. W. J. S. Additton, of Boston, favored the audience with the reading of two poems, which he rendered in masterly style. In Hood's Bridge of Sighs, the clear, flexible voice and appropriate gestures of the reader interpreted wonderfully the touching pathos of the author. And in Poe's Raven, one of the most difficult of pieces, the gloom of the supernatural and sorrow for the loved and lost, were vividly portrayed, and new depths of meaning opened to the listeners. Mr. Additton certainly has rare powers of elocution. Gen. Webster, in the course of the evening, read The Ship on Fire, and a comic poem by Saxe.

SHOE FACTORY. At the annual meeting of the stockholders in the Shoe Factory, on Monday, the following directors for the ensuing year were chosen—Philo Hersey, W. C. Marshall, N. F. Houston, W. H. Simpson, L. A. Knowlton, Calvin Hervey, W. T. Colburn. N. F. Houston was elected treasurer, and E. K. Boyle, clerk.

Philo Hersey, Esq., President, made a report, in which he stated that the whole expenditure to have been $17,000, for building and machinery. The lease, which is not yet completed, although the terms are agreed upon, will take effect from Aug. 1, 1872. The lessees, who have been at work eight months, now employ 95 persons, and produce 800 pairs of shoes per day. Seventeen families, comprising 64 persons, have moved into town, and are now at work in the factory. The lessees have expended $14,000 in machinery, &c., and intend to make a further investment of $2500 in order to double the present capacity of the works, which they intend to do before July first. The President says that the lessees are satisfied with the experiment, which is fast becoming a permanent success. They are embarrassed by the amount of intelligent labor offering. Col. Hersey speaks in high terms of the gentlemen to whom the factory is leased. The directors were empowered to sell the surplus land belonging to the company, and to perfect the lease for ten years with Messrs. Jenkins Lane & Son.

FREEDOM.

A Farmers' Club has been organized here, and holds meetings Saturday afternoons at two o'clock. The first hour to be devoted to conversational interchange of views upon general farm matters. After which the time will be devoted to discussions and the reading of essays.

The programme for the next meeting is. After the first hour: 1st an essay by D. B. Johnson. Subject, Fruit Culture. 2d, Essay by E. J. Thompson. Subject, Mixed Husbandry.

A sleigh belonging to a Mr. Clement of Montville was demolished on Saturday by a snow and ice slide from the roof of Vose's store. The horse escaped.

NEW YORK, 7.

A newspaper correspondent who went down to the wreck of the Atlantic, yesterday, in a diver's costume, says that the hull lies well down on the port side, and is broken in several places from contact with the reef. Fish were swimming around, eagerly devouring the particles of food found floating around. He found the forward hatch open and saw that the cargo there had broken the bulk, and lay in confused heaps with the bodies of men and women jammed among the cases and crates, bruised and torn.

Fishes were swimming in and out, feasting upon the dead bodies. Limbs are strewn around having been broken from the bodies by the continual motion of the waters, which, when agitated, drive against ugly pieces of the broken hall that here project.

The correspondent then went to the companion way of the steerage cabins, and found a hundred or more bodies lying in an immense heap, looking as if alive, with arms dislocated, eyes staring wildly, faces grinning, and moving back and forward with the undercurrent. Some were dressed, but many were half-nude. Children were clinging to their mothers. Stout men were clasping their wives, seeming to have met death with calm resignation. The scene was horrible, beyond description.

The correspondent then went into the companion-way of the steerage, where the men passengers were by themselves. The bodies of strong men, old and young, were huddled together on the stairway, with distended nostrils, gaping mouths, staring, glassy eyes, giving conception of the terror which seized them as they vainly struggled to gain the deck.

From another part of the vessel a view was obtained of the sleeping apartment, where piled upon the port side, were numbers of bodies of men, with bedclothing strewn among them. From the abrasion with broken stanchions and jagged and splintered woodwork, the flesh had been torn from the faces of many. Others are bruised and battered about their heads, which are red and bloody, contrasting horribly.

The Fisheries.

The following circular relative to the fisheries on the coast of Canada was issued from the Treasury department April 2d:

To Collectors of Customs and others:—

By circular under date of March 6, 1872, this department notified collectors of customs and the public in regard to restrictions to which American vessels will be subject when employed in fishing on the coasts of the British North American colonies, and that provisions between the United States and Great Britain, proclaimed July 4, 1871, so far as they relate to the fisheries, would not go into effect until the laws required to carry them into operation were passed by the imperial Parliament of Great Britain, by the parliament of Canada and by the legislature of Prince Edward Island on the one hand, and by the Congress of the United States on the other. The Secretary of State recently assured me that he had been officially informed by Her Britannic Majesty's minister at Washington that the executive government of the Dominion of Canada, regarding the act of Congress giving effect to the treaty of Washington as not going into operation till July 1, 1873, has decided that till that time American fishermen have no legal right to fish in Canada waters, and their vessels are liable to seizure for doing so; that the Dominion Government will, however, take no steps to prevent vessels from fishing within the three-mile limit; that such vessels will have permission to fish so far as the government can grant it, and that it is not probable any seizure will be made at the instance of private parties, but that should such a case occur the good offices of the government will be used in advising the release of vessels and the remission of any penalties incurred. In view of this courteous and liberal act of the government of the Dominion you are hereby enjoined to make known to the public interested in the subject, as far as possible, that until the treaty of Washington relating to the fisheries shall go into effect, the liberty of fishing in waters hereafter to be thrown open to the fishermen of the United States by the operation of these provisions is permissory only, and subject to attempts by private parties to enforce the still existing legal restrictions which are set forth in the circular of this department already referred to, and that if American fishermen engage in fishing within the three-mile limit hereinbefore mentioned before July 1, 1873, they may still be subjected to serious difficulty by private parties under the provisions of the statutes of the Dominion of Canada. [Signed]

Secretary of the Treasury.

A SEA CAPTAIN'S OPINION OF THE MARY CELESTE MYSTERY. Capt. Ansel Weeks, Jr., of Mattapoisett, Mass., writes as follows to the New York Journal of Commerce:

It appears strange to me that in attributing the affair of the Mary Celeste to mutiny or criminal desertion, with the view of defrauding underwriters, the more probable and common sense view of the matter has been overlooked.

According to the log, the vessel had made from the previous noon up to 8 A. M. about 140 miles, having averaged about 5 knots, which shows that the wind must have been quite moderate. Now, supposing that during the forenoon it should have fallen calm, as is frequently the case in November, especially with northerly and northwest winds, according to the log, at 8 A. M., with eastern point of Santa Maria bearing S. S. W., which, allowing for the variations, would be about due south only six miles, between that time and night, with a heavy northerly swell rolling towards and on the island, as is generally the case during that season of the year, the vessel would probably have drifted very near the breakers. Under these circumstances, as every nautical man knows, they would have lowered, manned and sent ahead a boat to endeavor to keep the vessel out of the breakers.

Now, suppose that, notwithstanding their utmost efforts (anchoring being out of the question on account of depth of water and boldness of shore), the vessel should have approached the breakers as to make it dangerous to remain any longer on board, then, of course, the only resource would be to take to the boat. At that late season, with the boat overcrowded by captain and family, officers and crew, and on the weather or inaccessible side of the island, and taking it for granted that the vessel was doomed, they would naturally pull away and endeavor to make a landing on some accessible part. They have been deceived by appearances (a surf never showing its worst from off shore) and have been swamped, or even may have been swamped in trying to reach the port side of the S. side of the island, and of course all on board would have perished.

The shore being so very bold, the vessel before entering the breakers or grounding may have been kept off by the undertow, and possibly, as is often the case after a calm, a faint air might have struck from the land and have drifted her clear of the E. point, and then, the shore making off a broad southerly, the vessel, with the wind from the W. quarter and drawing off the island, might easily have drifted into the position in which she was discovered, more especially as a vessel of that rig, having so much fore and aft canvas, would work off quite fast even if the square sails were aback. This would account for everything in the cabin having been found undisturbed, as probably the captain would deter until the last moment imparting to his wife the facts of the situation, also, the men being in the boat would have had little or no time for gathering together any of their effects.

"NOTHING IMPROPER IN IT." By-the-by, that reminds us of a conundrum much in vogue now in polite society in Washington. One of our most fashionable belles was giving it out the other night to a circle of friends, when our accomplished coadjutor, Mr. Edward L. Stanton, put his foot in it, not in the conundrum, but in the proprieties.

"What is that," said the lady, "which Luke has before, Paul behind, that girls have, that boys do not have, that Miss O'Gallagher had twice in the middle before she was married, and which, if you wish to have both behind and before, you must go to Liverpool?"

As there was considerable giggling and a few blushes after this was given out, Mr. Stanton said:

"Why, ladies, there's nothing improper in it. It's only the letter L.

"Who said there was anything improper in it?" asked the lady with calm dignity, which made Edward Stanton with an L wilt suddenly. As he is a night-blooming serious young man, the consequences were unpleasant. [The Capital.

Execution of an English Murderess.

With the recent execution of Mrs. Mary Ann Cotton, at Durham, England, the last page has been turned in the life of a woman whose career, in all except the penalty for her crimes, has been a singularly correct parallel to that of Mrs. Lydia Sherman, romantically styled the "Connecticut Borgia." Her extreme offences were extended over a series of years, confined almost exclusively to her own family, and so skillfully conducted that the last crime for which she was tried condemned and executed, was the first that had excited sufficient suspicion to lead to any action. When a young woman she married in her station, moved from her native village and county with her husband, and lived elsewhere among the coal mines for four or five years. At the end of that time the couple returned. She had borne several children, but all were dead, the malady which destroyed them being gastric fever. Soon her husband followed his children, and his complaint was also gastric fever. In due time she married again, and gastric fever prostrated and carried away successively several of the new circle of relatives which she had formed. A second time she was left a widow, and marrying a third husband was at last brought to justice on suspicion of being implicated in the gastric fever that killed her step-son. If English law had been as mild as American, Mrs. Cotton might, like her rival in crime, be in a state of superlative ecstasy in some British jail; but none too severe a warning has been afforded by her punishment to such total depravity as these two women have manifested.

On the morning of the fatal day, at the sound of the death-bell, the unfortunate criminal left her cell in company of the officers and was led out to the scaffold, followed by Calcraft and his assistant. The prisoner was escorted on each side by a male warder, but though her step was firm and her body erect, there was deep emotion observable in her face, which had so changed since her trial that she was scarcely recognizable. She was dressed in a black stuff gown, with a black and white check shawl thrown over her shoulders, and so fastened in front as to hide the pinioning straps. Her head and throat were bare, and her hands convulsively clasped in front. As she left the cell she said, "Heaven is my home," and on her way to the scaffold was continually moaning and muttering prayers. When she reached the drop, Calcraft immediately stood before her and covered her face with the white cap. She trembled perceptibly, and never ceased her devotions. Having strapped her legs together and seen that the rope was duly adjusted, Calcraft withdrew to the part where the handle of the bolt was placed, whilst the two male warders retained their positions on the plank on each side of the prisoner. The unhappy woman clasped her hands close to her breast, murmured in an earnest tone, "Lord, have mercy on my soul," and in a moment the bolt was drawn by Calcraft's assistant. All present were deeply moved, particularly the Under-Sheriff, whom it was necessary at one point of the proceeding to support.

What an Opportunity he Lost.

From the New York Sun.

Suppose that on the morning of Tuesday, March 4th, when the bill increasing salaries was handed to President Grant, he had, instead of signing it, sent it back to the House of Representatives with such a message as the following:

"I return herewith the bill providing for an increase of salaries without my signature, which I withhold for the following reasons:

"1. This bill gives me $50,000 a year for the next four years without regard to the fact that when I accepted the nomination and election I contracted with the people to perform the duties of the office for $25,000 a year. It would be dishonest in me to draw any more by virtue of a bill passed as this one has been, and I refuse the proffer accordingly. Besides, apart from this decisive consideration, the question of increasing the President's salary was not discussed and decided by the people in the recent election, and I do not think that a measure of so serious a nature respecting the compensation of their public sevants should ever be passed until they have had an opportunity of expressing their judgment upon it.

"2. I also disapprove of this bill because it increases the pay of members of Congress for a period of service already performed and already paid for. This appears to me to be a more flagrant invasion of popular rights and of the principles of common honesty even than that clause in the bill which doubles the President's salary."

Suppose President Grant had possessed intelligence and honor enough to send in such a message as this, what a great man he would be in the estimation of the people, and what a great man he would be in reality!

Industrial Operations in Maine.

The Augusta correspondent of the Boston Journal writes—

But few are aware of the large number of new manufacturing establishments going into operation in Maine, or of the progress that has been made the past twenty-five years in the establishment of various branches of industry. At the present time it is estimated that there are some six thousand manufactories in this State, carried on in either a corporate or private capacity, giving employment to over 40,000 persons, and whose aggregate products amount to some eighty millions of dollars yearly. Since 1850 Maine has more than trebled the number of her manufacturing establishments and the nature of their products. The growth of her manufactures for the past four or five years has been remarkable. Industrial enterprises of all sorts seem to be springing up on every hand. Probably no other State has better natural advantages for manufacturing enterprises than Maine possesses, and that is one reason why our mills and factories are increasing so fast in number. Besides, a most liberal policy is being pursued by towns to secure the establishment of new industries. The present year, according to the indications, will show an increase in the total value of the manufactured products of the State over that of any preceding year.

TERRIFIC EXPLOSION. In 1865 the Confederate gunboats Charleston and Chicora were lying in Cooper River, and were blown up when the city was evacuated by the rebel troops. The wreck of the first boat had never been found until within a few days. professor Maillefert, whose fame as a wrecker is so well known to the Charleston public, has for a long time occupied himself with the solution of this riddle. A few weeks ago he accidentally observed a strange rippling of the water surface four hundred and fifty yards, more than a quarter of a mile eastward of the wreck of the vessel, and it at once occurred to him that the phenomenon afforded a clue to the mystery. He accordingly anchored one of his derricks above the spot marked by the ripple, and an examination revealed lying upon the bottom of the river the iron sheating of the bow and one entire broadside of the vessel, constituting a mass of iron weighing altogether 212,650 pounds, or nearly one hundred tons. The whole broadside of the battery with the port-holes was intact. That this immense mass of iron should have been hurled through the air more than a quarter of a mile, affords a startling illustration of the force of the explosion.

The wasp with a yellow bustle is no insignificant agent in dispersing a crowd, but a nervous woman making through a crowd for the cars with a valise in one hand and an umbrella in the other is about as appalling an object as the human mind can conceive and maintain its balance.

A sweet little boy, only eight years old—bless his little heart—walked into the scene of a teachers' examination at Oswego, last week, and bawled out: "Annie, your feller is down to the house."

The summary manner in which the thief who met his death, while pursuing his trade, in Newtown, L. I., on Saturday morning, will doubtless have an effect to discourage similar attempts at theft in the night time. As has been briefly stated, Mr. W. E. Furman, a prominent merchant of Newtown, just before daylight, heard a noise as of some person attempting to break into his house. He arose and went to the window of his sleeping room and seeing a man prowling about the house he was about to fire, but the intruder dodged behind the fence. Mr. Furman then went out to meet the thief, and as he neared the fence where the man had concealed himself, two flashes lit up the scene and a ball grazed the back of Mr. Furman's hand. He returned the fire, and after discharging the full contents of his pistol he went back to his store and aroused his sons. They returned to the scene of the encounter, and on approaching the fence they heard low groans, which they subsequently discovered were made by the thief, who was found to have been fatally wounded in the abdomen. Every effort was made to make him comfortable, but all he said was to wish, in a clear firm voice, that some one would put a bullet through his head. He did not wish to send for any one, nor to make any request, and he refused to give any information. He wanted neither a Catholic priest nor a Protestant clergyman, but only to die in peace. He expired soon after with all his secrets untold. On his person was found a full set of burglar's tools, which, together with other circumstances, confirm the belief that the victim was one of a desperate gang of burglars, which have been operating in the vicinity for some time past.

Fire at Bridgton.

PORTLAND, April 8.

A fire in Bridgton at 8 o'clock last evening burned the dry goods store of Robert A. Cleaver, the next building occupied by Isaiah Gore as a livery stable, also by J. S. Merrill photographer and Smith & Chaplin lawyers, the building occupied by the Bridgton News and Mr. Sanderson, tailor, the building occupied by E. E. Wilder, harness maker and the blacksmith shop of William Riley. Loss estimated at $60,000.

Pills, Potions and Pungencies.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery will cure a Cough in one-half the time necessary to cure it with any other medicine, and it does it, not by drying it up, but by removing the cause—subduing the irritation and healing the affected parts. For all cases of Laryngitis, Hoarseness, Suppression or Loss of Voice, Bronchitis, Severe Chronic or Lingering Coughs, it will be found to surpass any medicine that has ever before been offered to the public. Sold by Druggists. 674

Centaur Liniment.

There is no pain which the Centau Liniment will not relieve, no swelling it will not subdue, and no lameness which it will not cure. This is strong language, but it is true. Where the parts are not gone, its effects are marvelous. It has produced more cures of rheumatism, neuralgia, lock-jaw, palsy, sprains, swellings, caked-breasts, scalds, burns, salt-rheum, earache, &c., upon the human frame, and of strains, spavin, galls, &c., upon animals in one year than have all other pretended remedies since the world began. It is a counter-irritant, an all-healing pain reliever. Cripples throw away their crutches, the lame walk, poisonous bites are rendered harmless and the wounded are healed without a scar. It is no humbug. The recipe is published around each bottle. It is selling as no article ever before sold, and it sells becaues it does just what it pretends to do. Those who now suffer from rhematism, pain or swelling deserve to suffer if they will not use Centaur Liniment. More than 1000 certificates of remarkable cures, including frozen limbs, chronic-rheumatism, gout, running tumors, &c., have been received. We will send a circular containing certificates, the recipe, &c., gratis, to any one requesting it. One bottle of the yellow wrapper Centaur Liniment is worth one hundred dollars for spavined or sweenied horses and mules, or for screw-worm in sheep. Stockowners—this liniment is worth your attention. No family should be without Centaur Liniment.

GOOD WORDS FOR THE PAIN-KILLER!

We can confidently recommend the Pain-Killer. [Toronto Baptist.

It is the most effectual remedy we know of for Aches, Pains, flesh wounds, &c. [St. Johns News, P. Q.

We advise that every family should have so effectual and speedy a Pain-Killer. [Amherst N. S. Gazette.

Our own experience is that a bottle of Pain-Killer is the best Physician a traveller can have. [Hamilton Spectator.

For both internal and external application have found it of great value. [Chris. Era.

A medicine no family should be without. [Moneal Transcript.

Could hardly keep house without it. [Ed Voice

Should be kept in every house, in readiness for sudden attacks of sickness. [Chris. Press.

No article ever obtained such unbounded popularity. [Salem Observer.

One of the most reliable specifics of the age. [Old North State.

Its power is wonderful and unequaled in relieving the most severe pain. [Burlington Sentinel.

An indispensable article in the medicine chest. [N. Y. Examiner.

It will recommend itself to all who use it. (Georgia Enterprise.

Is extensively used and sought after as a really useful medicine. [Journal, St. John, N. B.

No medicine has acquired such a reputation; It has real merit. [Newport Daily News.

One of the most useful medicines; have used it and dispensed it for the past twenty years. [Rev. Wm. Ward, Assam.

The most valuable medicine now in use. [Tenn. Organ.

It is really a valuable medicine, and used by many physicians. [Boston Traveler.

We always keep it where we can put our hands on it in the dark, if need be. [Rev. C. Hibbard, Burmah.

One of the few articles that are just what they pretend to be. (Brunswick Telegraph.

In my mountain travels no medicine is of so universal application as Pain-Killer. (Rev. M. H. Bixby, Burmah.

CONSUMPTION CAN BE CURED.

SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP,
SCHENCK'S SEAWEED TONIC,
SCHENCK'S MANDRAKE PILLS,

Are the only medicines that will cure Pulmonary Consumption.

Sometimes medicines that will stop a cough will often occasion the death of the patient. It locks up the liver, stops the circulation of the blood, hemorrhage follows, and, in fact, clogging the action of the very organs that caused the cough.

Liver complaint and dyspepsia are the causes of two-thirds of the cases of consumption. Many are now complaining with dull pain in the side, the bowels sometimes costive and sometimes too loose, tongue coated, pain in the shoulder-blade, feeling sometimes very restless, and at other times drowsy; the food that is taken lies heavily on the stomach, accompanied with acidity and belching of wind. These symptoms usually originate from a disordered condition of the stomach or a torpid liver. Persons so affected, if they take one or two heavy colds, and if the cough in these cases be suddenly stopped, the lungs, liver and stomach clog, and remain torpid and inactive, and before the patient is aware of his situation, the lungs are a mass of sores, and ulcerated, and death is the inevitable result.

Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup is an expectorant which does not contain any opium, nor anything calculated to check a cough suddenly.

Schenck's Seaweed tonic dissolves the food, mixes with the gastric juice of the stomach, digests easily, nourishes the system, and creates a healthy circulation of the blood. When the bowels are costive, skin sallow and the patient is of a bilious habit, Schenck's Mandrake Pills are required.

These medicines are prepared by Dr. J. H. SCHENCK & SON, Northeast corner of Sixth and Arch streets, Philadelphia, Penn., and for sale by GEO. C. GOODWIN & CO., 38 Hanover street, Boston, and JOHN F. HENRY, 8 College place, New York, Wholesale Agents.
