2 Women Killed in Crashes

By UNITED PRESS

Utah's 1958 death toll stood at 51 today with the deaths of two women in separate weekend accidents.

The victims were Mrs. Lois Jarman Chipman, 60, of Kaysville, and Mrs. Betty Jo Wunther LeFevre, 37, of Hurricane, Washington County.

Mrs. Chipman died Sunday when the car in which she was riding struck a tree in Clearfield. Her husband and driver of the car, Elburn H. Chipman, 57, said he "blacked out" just before the crash.

Chipman was reported in "fair" condition at St. Benedict's Hospital in Ogden.

Mrs. LeFevre died when an automobile driven by her husband, James J. LeFevre, 43, crashed into an embankment on U.S. Highway 91 seven miles east of St. George Sunday night.

LeFevre's condition was reported "good" by his private physician.

Suspect Held In Drowning Of Woman

SALT LAKE CITY (UP)— An autopsy showed today that Margaret Ballard, 39, Salt Lake City, whose body was found floating face down in the Jordan Surplus Canal, died of drowning.

Officers were holding a 46-year-old man on a vagrancy charge until investigation into the matter could be completed although the autopsy failed to disclose any indication of foul play.

They said the man admitted he took the woman to the canal Saturday afternoon "to wash her feet," that he slapped her and did not try to pull her to safety when she jumped into the canal.

Police said the story was corroborated by another companion, who said he remained in a nearby car while the other man and woman went down to the canal bank.

The woman was barefooted and dressed in a red print dress. The arrested man admitted he discarded her shoes and purse in downtown Salt Lake City.

The autopsy report and other information will be turned over to the county attorney's office to determine whether any further action will be taken.

Colorado 'U' Coed Killed in Crash

ROLLINSVILLE, Colo. (UP) — A 22-year old Colorado University coed was killed instantly late Saturday when the car she was riding in crashed into a bridge abutment just south of here.

The Colorado State Patrol said the victim, Sandra Katheryn Strauss of Cleveland, O., was thrown from the car and struck part of the steel bridge across South Boulder Creek.

The girl fell into the mountain stream and floated one-half mile downstream before her body was recovered.

Killer of Nine Goes On Trial in Glasgow Court

By ROBERT MUSEL
United Press Staff Correspondent

GLASGOW (UP)— A fanfare of trumpets shattered the stillness of the Scottish High Court today and signalled the start of the trial of Peter Manuel, 31, a woodchopper accused of killing nine persons in murders without motive.

The darkly good looking Manuel was born in New York City but was brought back to his parents' native land as a child of four. He was on trial here for the murder of eight persons; a ninth victim was outside the jurisdiction of this court.

It was the biggest murder trial in Scottish criminal history. Feeling against Manuel once ran so high he was threatened with mob violence. Now a lock of his hair brings a high price from the morbid curiosity seekers.

Souvenirs on Sale

Racketeers in Glasgow's sleazy underworld were making a killing selling souvenirs which included photographs, fragments of torn-up letters and ball point pens he was said to have used in preparing his defense notes.

Police and psychiatrists alike have been baffled by the crimes attributed to Manuel. The women victims were molested but not attacked. In no case was any tempting amount of money involved. A Durham, England, taxi-driver (who does not figure in this trial) had his throat cut in an argument over a shilling (14 cents).

The murders were so without motive that in a curious way they became linked. The first victim, Anne Kheilands, 17, was bludgeoned to death on a golf course or Jan. 2, 1956, but was neither robbed nor assaulted.

Motive Lacking

In September of that year Mrs. Marion Wold, her 16-year-old daughter Vivienne and her sister, Mrs. Margaret Watt, were shot to death in the Watt home. Again there was no apparent reason.

In Christmas Week 1957 Isabelle Cooke, 17, was stripped, strangled and robbed of a tiny sum. Four days later, on New Year's Day, 1958, Peter Smart, his wife Doris and their son Michael, 10, were shot to death in their home. Only a few trinkets and loose cash were taken.

Police fingered Manuel almost on a hunch.

CHILDREN ARRIVE EARLY

WIESBADEN, Germany (UP)— Forty per cent of West Germany's first born were conceived before marriage, the Federal Statistics Office reported Sunday. It said that in 1956, 77 per cent of all first born children in the country arrived before the first wedding anniversary.

Nixon Heads Into Tour Of Colombia

BOGOTA, Colombia (UP)—Vice President Richard M. Nixon, buoyed by new praise for the way he has faced up to Communist demonstrators in South America, headed into the open country today for a tour of a Colombian agricultural station.

The U.S. Vice President got the warmest reception of his eight-nation tour when he arrived in Colombia Sunday.

He smiled down minor heckling which failed to dim the cheers of thousands who greeted him.

He was scheduled to visit Colombia's 1,500-acre agricultural experiment station at Tibaitata, about an hour's ride from Bogota.

Communists shouted anti-Nixon slogans Sunday when he arrived at his hotel and later at Bogota's parks where he placed floral wreaths on the monuments of Colombia's two greatest heroes, liberator Simon Bolivar and founder of the republic Francisco de Paula Santander.

Nixon was unperturbed and estimated that the welcoming crowds were 1-1 in his favor.

Dulles Pleads For Reciprocal Trade Act Renewal, 5 Years

MINNEAPOLIS (UP) —Secretary of State John Foster Dulles urged a five-year renewal of the Reciprocal Trade Agreements Act to help the world achieve peaceful prosperity.

Dulles spoke yesterday at the University of Minnesota stadium to climax Minnesota's gala statehood centennial celebration.

His plea for greater world trade echoed similar appeals by almost every visiting Scandinavian dignitary attending the celebration. Among the most outspoken trade boosters along wth Dulles were Prince Bertil of Sweden and Danish Prime Minister H. C. Hansen.

Dulles came here directly from a meeting of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization council of ministers in Copenhagen, Denmark.

He said renewal of the trade act "is necessary both for our economic welfare and for our peace."

The world cannot survive in peaceful prosperity, Dulles warned, if each nation emphasizes only its independence and neglects interdependence.

He said the trade program contributes to the United States's political and military security. He cited the early 1930's as an example of what could happen if the U. S. turned its back on international trade.

"In the 30's we sought relief from economic depression by raising our tariffs and devaluating our currency without regard to the effect this would have on others who were largely dependent on international trade," Dulles said.

He said Germany and Japan took this U. S. example "as a justification for policies of extreme nationalism and of expansion, on the theory that economic livelihood was no longer obtainable by normal methods of peaceful trade."

Aides at Salt Lake General Hospital said she died from a gunshot wound in the abdomen.

Nina M. Camp, 38, and Monta Peterson, 35, a daughter of Mrs. Essie Peterson, were killed in the shooting that authorities termed a murder-suicide.

Merlin Yates, also of Magna, suffered a gunshot wound in an arm in the incident.

The words are cold and legal, but between the lines . . .

This, too, is the language of love

What do they really say—those long, legal paragraphs in a life insurance policy?

Most of them are pledges. Iron-clad legal pledges, strong as the law of the land.

In most policies, the company pledges this: to help provide a wife's support if her husband should die.

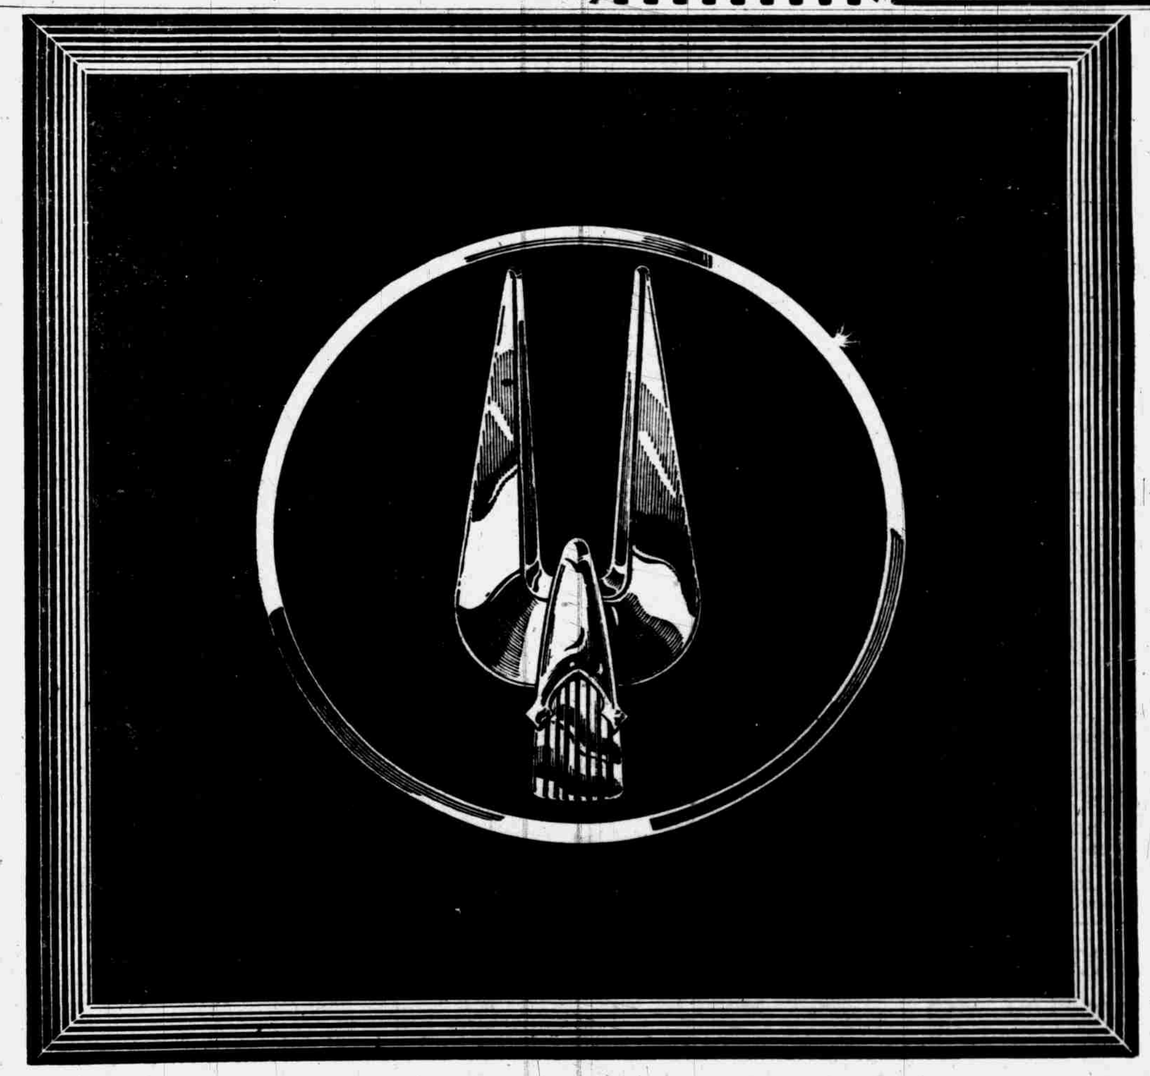

But, reading between the lines, they are pledges the husband makes to his wife. He says, in effect, "I pledge to you my continued care and support, if I should not always be with you."

Or sometimes—"I pledge my care and support as long as you shall live."

Yes—this is the language of love.
