Plane Is Rocket-Boosted Out Of Bomb Shelter

Man Gets Along Better Than Mouse In Shelter Jet Test

By RALPH DIGHTON

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Test Pilot Al Blackburn, first man to blast out of a bomb shelter in a rocket-boosted jet plane, says:

"It was a snap for me, but you should have seen the mouse."

Blackburn was referring to a desert mouse accidentally caught in the cave-like shelter at Holloman Air Force Base, N.M., at the time of blastoff Wednesday.

"The mouse staggered out stunned and shaken but he was definitely alive," Blackburn said. "I think he must have heard the laboratory people saying, 'let's grab him and check him over,' because he got right up and scampered off."

Blackburn used the mouse incident to minimize the dangers of his feat in an interview after returning to his home here Thursday.

"That mouse was exposed to the full blast and noise of the booster," Blackburn said. "I was protected inside the plane and the plane was out of the shelter in less than a second."

Blackburn, 36-year-old test pilot for North American Aviation, added:

"When I first started preparing for the test, my first reaction was that the shelter would be a mighty tight hole to get out of. Knowing that the blast would be confined and that the noise would be reflected back on the pilot, we had a number of apprehensions as to how rough it was going to be.

"But as the program went along it became obvious that we were not going to have any problems."

Blackburn had undergone 14 such blast-offs earlier at Edwards Air Force Base, Calif., identical except that they were out in the open. The shelter take-off was made to prove that planes can be protected from sneak nuclear attack and still be ready for a quick counter-blow.

Blackburn's supersonic F100 was airborne after a takeoff of less than one inch — the distance the plane moved before breaking the shear-bolts that held it in the shelter.

The booster rocket, attached below the tail of the plane, built up a pressure of 130,000 pounds of thrust — almost equal to that developed by a Thor intermediate range missile. Four seconds after blast-off the jet was doing 275 miles an hour and the booster dropped away. In another few seconds the jet's own engine was propelling it faster than sound—more than 750 miles an hour.

Blackburn said the tremendous acceleration — creating pressures four times that of normal gravity —and extremely high noise level had no effect on his ability to manage the plane.

Blackburn, president of the Society of Experimental Test Pilots, said the test proved his contention that tomorrow's missiles can and must be manned. He added:

"If we were to put men in missiles to make the necessary corrections there would be a lot fewer failures."

Haden Lauds Conchettes In Talk Here

The Key West Conchettes were highly praised by Denard Haden at the regular luncheon meeting of the Rotary Club held Thursday at Logun's Lobster House.

Haden, who has worked with the Conchettes since they were organized five years ago, told the Rotarians that in three and one half days that the girls have completed 70 complete steps.

"This is a feat of memory that I have never before seen equaled and I have worked with like teams in colleges and high schools," Haden said.

A resident of Marshall, Texas, Haden came to Key West when the Conchettes were just starting. He taught them their first steps and on Thursday he said the results of today are a work of terrific achievement.

He said about 50 per cent of the girls now on the team have a backlog of about two years training.

"They are ambassadors of good will and along with your high school band, are an advertising attraction for this city that cannot be beat," Haden concluded.

Robert Knowles and Warren Abbey, who attended Boys State as Rotary club representatives, told of their experiences and the benefits gained.

Capsule Loss May Be Due To Freezing

WASHINGTON (AP) — Extremely low temperatures in America's Discoverer VI satellite may have frozen out chances of recovering an instrument-filled capsule it ejected over the Pacific Ocean.

The 300 - pound capsule was kicked loose Thursday night as the satellite orbited over the Hawaiian Islands. But no trace was found of it.

What went wrong? Scientists aren't sure. But they think the low temperatures in Discoverer VI may have affected the battery power supply in the recovery capsule.

If that was the case, the capsule was "dead" as it plunged down through space. Without the power supply, the capsule's radio beacon would not operate and its signal lights would remain dark. Its parachute would not open.

The powerless capsule would be unable to signal to plane crews that had hoped to snag it as it fell, or to recovery teams on ships that were to pull it from the ocean if the recovery by plane failed.

Chances of a successful catch had been rated to 1 in 1,000.

STEVE SPEAKS TO

sons unknown to either, Rockefeller said. He declined to say what the presents are.

More than 500 congratulatory letters and telegrams have come to them also from North and South America, Europe and the Middle East, he said.

With the arrival of his father the rosy atomosphere of romance turns more political.

The New York governor was due late this afternoon with his two daughters, Mary and Ann Pierson. They left New York aboard a KLM airliner Thursday night.

Rockefeller, a potential candidate for the Republican presidential nomination next year, probably will be confronted with more questions about politics in the United States than love in the fjords.

Steven himself said Thursday his father's position in the American political picture is the reason for the great attention his romance is receiving. Nearly 100 reporters and photographers from a doren nations have swarmed into this little south Norway town to cover the wedding Saturday.

To many Norwegians the excitement doesn't stem from the fact that the 25-year-old bridgroom is an heir to one of the greatest fortunes in the world or that the 21-year-old bride was a maid in the Rockefeller home when she met Steven.

When Steven and Anne Marie announced their engagement Aug. 2, a Norwegian newspaper editorialized that "the people on the south coast of Norway will follow next year's nomination and presidential election in the United States with special interest."

Another headline asked: "will Kristian E. Rasmussen (Anne Marie's father) have a daughter in the White House?"

A number of European newsmen here think the engagement furor, the disappearance of Steven and Annie Marie with her parents for a week of private travel, and all the fanfare attending the wedding were carefully planned to give the governor publicity as a presidential possibility.

They consider that the presence here of Steven David, a public relations man in Rockefeller's New York office, confirms their suspicion. They see him as director of the alleged buildup.

But David pointed out that the Rockefeller family felt someone was needed in Norway to answer questions about arrangements for the wedding and to act as go-between for reporters and the engaged couple.

"I'm it," he said.

Meanwhile, crowds gather daily in front of the Kristiansand hotel whenever another member of the Rockefeller family flies in.

Steven's mother, who arrived here Monday, has become a familiar figure. She took a tray and ate hamburgers in a local cafeteria Thursday. Later she went to a government liquor store, but clerks there said it was against the law to disclose what she bought.

Steven's two brothers, Michael and Rodman, and Rodman's wife, attracted another crowd when they arrived Thursday.

Thursday night the brothers and the other four ushers for the wedding — Jerry Rigg of Omaha, Neb., David Montgomery of Niagara Falls, N.Y., Harold Talbot of New York City and Robert Waldron of Rockford, Ill.—gave Steven the traditional bachelor's dinner at the local hotel.

It was a late and wet affair. The strains of college songs and Auld Lang Syne floated somewhat unsteadily through the night air.

Steel Strike Deadlock Is Continuing

NEW YORK (AP) -- The steel strike deadlocked dragged on today after a top-level conference among industry and union negotiators and Joseph F. Finnegan, director of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service.

Teams representing the union and the 12 largest steel companies continued their talks here today.

R. Conrad Cooper, chief industry negotiator and executive vice president of the United States Steel Corp., and David J. McDonald, president of the striking United Steelworkers of America, held a joint meeting with Finnegan Thursday.

The session was McDonald's first discussion with an industry official since Aug. 7. He has stayed away from the negotiations since that time on the ground that they were getting nowhere.

Finnegan said McDonald and Cooper may meet here again next Monday.

McDonald left here late Thursday for Pittsburgh where, a spokesman said, he had union business to transact.

Finnegan would not reveal to newsmen the trend of the Cooper-McDonald talk. But he said that Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell's report on the steel strike did not figure in the conversation or in the meeting of the negotiating teams.

Mitchell, President Eisenhower's fact-finder in the strike, made public on Wednesday night a lengthy report containing economic data on the steel industry.

J. L. Mauthe, a member of the steel companies' coordinating committee, said Thursday night that the striking union should recognize the desirability of the industry's financial strength and not attack its record profits.

A statement by Mauthe, board chairman of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube Co., was made on the company's weekly television program over station WKBN at Youngstown, Ohio.

The strike of 500,000 United Steelworkers, which is 38 days old, has idled about 150,000 employes of industries allied to steel.

Housing May Replace Track

NEW YORK (AP) — The abandoned Jamaica racetrack in Queens may become the site of the largest cooperative middle-income housing project in the United States.

The city board of estimate Thursday approved in principle the purchase of the 178-acre tract. The project would cost about 69 million dollars and include apartments for 6,350 families.

Occupants would make a down payment amounting to $600 a room, then a monthly maintenance rent of $23 per room.

The plan, recommended by the city construction coordinator, Robert Moses, would include about 25 apartment buildings of 14 stories, two schools, garages for 450 cars and outdoor parking for 2,100 others, and landscaped areas.

Moses was given approval to negotiate with the state for financing by a limited profit mortgage corporation. A private developer would be chosen to do the job.

134 Charged In Anti-Castro Plot

HAVANA (AP) — Fidel Castro's government so far has charged a total of 134 persons with conspiring to overthrow the bearded revolutionary leader's regime.

Forty-seven civilians and former military men were charged Thursday and taken to La Cabana military fortress, where 87 persons previously charged are being held.

The 134 were among thousands arrested last week when the government smashed a counterrevolutionary plot which Castro said originated in the Dominican Republic. Large numbers of those arrested have been released.

Scores Feared Dead

MANILA (AP) — A Philippine interisland motorship sank in stormy waters off the northern coast of Palawan Island, and first reports today indicated more than 100 might have perished. The Pilar II was described as a 240-ton ship with space for 83 passengers and 29 crew.

Nash Pays Penalty For Murders

Brutal Slayer Dies In Cal. Gas Chamber

By HARRY JUPITER

SAN QUENTIN, Calif. (AP)—Stephen Nash, who boasted of more killings than police could verify, died today in the San Quentin Prison gas chamber.

The gaunt, hypnotic-eyed knifer spent the last two of his 36 years of life in isolation on death row—isolated because of his fellow murderers sickened of his boast that he killed at least 11 men and boys.

He never had a visitor, and there was no one to claim his body.

Arrested on Los Angeles' skid road in 1956 when police found a bloody knife in his pocket, Nash admitted killing 10-year-old Larry Rice under a Santa Monica pier and John Berg, 26, in Berg's Long Beach apartment.

Convicted of those two murders, he confessed many others. Three, in San Francisco, Sacramento and Richmond, Calif., were verified by police. They believed the others, too, but found no proof.

Nash relished describing the way his victims died, just as he relished his last dinner of steak and pie.

When Superior Judge H. Burton Noble of Los Angeles sentenced Nash to die, he called the lanky, toothless stabber "the most evil person who ever appeared in my court." Nash merely smiled, in the same way he did when he refused spiritual comfort on his last day of life.

Nash gave this explanation for his crimes:

"I've always gotten the leftovers out of life. When I couldn't even get that much, I just took something out of someone else's life."

Court - appointed psychiatrists ruled Nash was legally sane.

Adopted as an infant by a couple in the Bronx, N.Y., he ran way from home four times as a boy. After enlisting in the Army in December 1941 he was AWOL twice.

He was discharged when he claimed to be a homosexual.

His long history of various crimes led to his examination by state psychiartists in 1948 and 1955. Both times he went free. His homicidal mania undetected.

In turning down his plea for clemency last Tuesday, Gov. Edmund G. Brown ordered a study commission "to see what we can do to prevent cases like this in the future."

The governor expressed "dismay that our laws allows a man as obviously dangerous as Nash to be released and to escape further restraint simply because we lack adequate controls."

Parents Are Charged In Baby's Death

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—A couple was charged Thursday with starving their 2-month-old son to death.

"I hope God forgives you for what you've done," said Justice of the Peace Albert Trevino as he set the bonds for Manuel Quesada, 55, and Francisca Martinez Quesada, 39, on murder charges.

Dr. Robert Hausman, county medical examiner, said the couple's baby, Juan, died of malnutrition Wednesday.

Detective Frank Castillon told of finding the body of the baby wrapped in a cotton blanket.

He said a city health nurse took milk to the mother for the baby and urged medical attention. The mother said she had no money to pay a doctor.

"Although they couldn't afford a doctor for the child," Castillon testified, "I noticed a large 21-inch television set in one of the rooms."

The parents are accused in the complaint of "voluntarily killing Juan Quesada" by neglecting him and refusing to give him enough food.

The Quesadas told police they gave away 8 of their 11 children, born in the past 13 years. Two others are staying with a grandmother.

Pa. Sales Tax Bill Is Signed

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP)—Gov. David L. Lawrence signed into law Thursday a measure raising Pennsylvania's sales tax from 3½ per cent to 4 per cent.

Exempt are food for home consumption; clothing, material used in the construction of foundations for machinery; maintenance supplies bought by charitable and similar nonprofit organizations; machinery; printing services; and repairs to equipment used directly in radio and television broadcasting.

Pennsylvania and Washington now have the highest state sales tax in the nation.

Who Wants One?

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Neckties made out of Kim Novak's lavender bed sheets are not selling so well.

This complaint, lodged to no one in particular, was registered by a San Francisco manufacturer, Beall Ernst, who obtained the frilly sheets at an auction.

He said he appears to be stuck with about half the 200 ties he fashioned from the sheets, used in the film "Vertigo."

He has cut the price from $10 apiece to $1.50.

Last Search On

WIESBADEN, Germany (AP)—Two helicopters have been ferried deep into the Libyan desert in the final search for the remains of a bomber crew that disappeared 16 years ago.

The B24 crashed in April 1943, after a raid on Naples. The crew was listed as missing. Recently mining prospectors came upon the wreck, which had landed itself after the crew bailed out.

Apparently the crew perished in the wastelands.

Moscow Man Sent To Aid Cuba Commies

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — A U.S. intelligence spokesman reported today that Moscow sent a Soviet intelligence officer to Cuba last May to guide local Communists on how to penetrate the government of Fidel Castro.

He also said the Soviets are secretly training more and more Latin American Communists on how to set up Communist dictatorships.

This word was given out by Gen. C. P. Cabell, deputy director of the Central Intelligence Agency, in a speech prepared for a meeting of the American Legion's National Security Commission.

Cabell declared that Kremlin tactics have run full circle from missile rattling to smiling faces, but their goal remains Communist rule of the world.

Cabell named the Soviet intelligence officer as Vadim Kotchergin. He said Kotchergin was sent to Cuba under a false name, ostensibly as a member of a trade union delegation, and has since returned to Moscow.

While in Cuba, Cabell said, Kotchergin's assignment was to give guidance to Cuban Communists.

"Primary targets for Communist penetration in Cuba are the agrarian reforms, trade unions and the army," he said.

He said Red Chinese propagandists also are setting up a newspaper in Cuba.

Harry And Jack To Team On TV

NEW YORK (AP) — Former President Harry S. Truman and Jack Benny will team up again, this time on Benny's television show Oct. 18 via the CBS network.

The announcement Thursday said part of the program feacuring the pair would be video taped at the Truman Memorial Library, Independence, Mo. There was no mention of what they'll do.

At a benefit concert of the Kansas City Symphony in March 1958, Truman conducted a portion of the concert and Benny played the violin.

96-Year-Old Man To Marry Third

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — James Frierson, a Raleigh handyman, is going to get married next month for the third time. He's 96 years old and his bride-to-be is 60.

Frierson, a courtly white-haired Negro who has outlived two wives said he and Susie Easterline have been dating for two years.

"A man gets lonesome by himself," says Frierson. "He needs a woman to tell his business and his troubles to. I'm tired of cooking for myself and it will be good to have a woman in the house."

Guardsmen To Protect 'Quake Area

WEST YELLOWSTONE PARK, Mont. (AP)—National Guardsmen moved into this earthquake-ravaged area today to prevent possible looting.

The quakes' death toll, meanwhile, reached nine. Mrs. Ray Painter, 42, of Ogden, Utah died Thursday in a Bozeman, Mont., hospital. She was hurt when the quake split a mountain and sent it thundering down on Rock Creek campground and into the Madison River.

Search officials fear other campers may be entombed in that massive landslide. Army engineers are expected to determine soon whether to attempt to move the 50 million tons of rock, earth and debris.

In addition to the known victims, Mrs. Thomas Stowe of Sandy, Utah, is missing and presumed dead. Her husband was killed.

The Guardsmen replaced Idaho and Wyoming state patrolmen who joined others from Montana in rescue operations during the chaos that followed the multiple earth shocks of Monday night and Tuesday.

Lesser jolts continued in the area Thursday. The U.S. Geodetic Survey counted 372 aftershocks.

The aftershocks, rain and the threat of new landslides has delayed groups searching for possible other victims.

Hundreds of campers and vacationers evacuated from the stricken area were listed by name and home town with the Red Cross and other agencies.
