Tipsy Hijacker Diverts Eastern Plane to Cuba

MIAMI (AP) — A sloppily dressed man who sipped whisky and waved a knife hijacked an Eastern Airlines jet with 104 persons aboard to Cuba Saturday, the third sky piracy in a week.

The hijacking began at 11:28 a.m. east of Daytona Beach, Fla. The plane and its passengers landed in Miami five and one-half hours later. The hijacker remained in Cuba.

Stewardess Loura Ann Compton of Miami said she took a pint bottle of whisky from the hijacker before he pulled a six-inch pearl-handled knife and demanded that the Boeing 727 leave its Baltimore to Miami route and fly him to Havana.

Later, after he was in the cockpit, Capt. John R. Brunning said the hijacker ordered Miss Compton to bring him the bottle.

"He took a few sips. Not much really," Capt. Brunning told a new conference in Miami.

However, a passenger, Tom Luesco of High Bridge, N.J., said: "He was drunk."

J. Susky of Harrisburg, Pa., another passenger, said he saw the hijacker leaving an airport bar in Baltimore. "He was bombed," Susky said.

Nixon Takes Surprise N.Y. Stroll

NEW YORK (UPI) — President Nixon took a surprise walk in midtown Manhattan Saturday and appeared to enjoy both the walk and the humid, 92-degree weather.

Walking briskly, the President walked the three blocks along 50th Street from the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel to the office of his dentist in Rockefeller Center in just six minutes.

Police whistles punctuated the walk as 50th Street was cleared of traffic while the President, surrounded by Secret Servicemen, plainclothes police, aides and newsmen, made the walk.

The President responded with smiles and waves and an occasional "Hi!" when greeted.

LEM's Ready

By Associated Press

Like a giant, asthmatic spider, a spindly lunar module simulator, piloted by Apollo 11 astronaut Edwin E. "Buzz" Aldrin, hissed and spitted to a successful landing Saturday on a concrete lunar landscape in Virginia. Meanwhile, the other two astronauts rehearsed their moon trip chores back home at the Houston Space Center.

Aldrin, who will land the real module on the moon next month, piloted the ungainly craft a dozen times from the top of 150-foot metal gantry to a simulated lunar surface below, complete with craters and rills, at NASA's Langley Field Research Center in Hampton, Va.

Charleston Hospital Still Shuns Demand

CHARLESTON, S.C. (AP) — The second of two Charleston hospitals involved in a long and bitter strike refused Saturday to rehire all of its striking employes, a demand the workers said is essential to a settlement.

The refusal came from the Charleston County Council, governing authority for the County Hospital, in a day-long session with representatives of the striking workers.

It had been hoped the session would produce a settlement similar to the one reached Friday at the larger Medical College of South Carolina Hospital, where rehiring of striking workers was one of the major issues.

J. Mitchell Graham, chairman of the Charleston County Council, said the County Hospital could take back 35 of the striking workers immediately — at last count there were 69 — and he offered to find jobs elsewhere for the others.

Rioters Hit In Midwest

United Press International

Snipers opened fire on police in violence-wracked Omaha, Neb., and Kokomo, Ind., early Saturday. Five persons were hurt when Negro teen-agers scuffled with police and stoned cars in Des Moines, Iowa.

A curfew was lifted in troubled Cairo, Ill. after a night of relative calm.

Omaha had its fourth night of disturbances Friday in the wake of the Tuesday shooting of a 14-year-old Negro girl by the adopted son of actress Hedy Lamarr. The shooting occurred while patrolman James Loder, 30, was investigating a burglary Tuesday.

Police said snipers opened fire on them in Omaha's near north side Negro ghetto early Saturday. A short time later, Ernest Chambers, a leader of the city's Negro community, was arrested on a weapons charge.

Oregon Dad, 30, Admits Killing 3 Young Women

SALEM, ORE. (UPI) — A 30-year-old Salem electrician has pleaded guilty to three first degree murder charges slayings of three young women.

Brudos

"I did it," said Jerome Henry Brudos as he admitted the murders of Karen Sprinker, 19, Salem; Jan Susan Whitney, 23, McMinnville, and Linda Salee, 22, Beaverton.

Marion County Circuit Court Judge Val D. Sloper then sentenced Brudos to three consecutive life terms in the Oregon State Penitentiary.

Decides to Change

Brudos also was linked to a fourth murder of an unidentified victim, believed to be Linda Slawson, 19, Aloha.

The blond, stocky father of two young children had been scheduled to go on trial Monday for the murder of the Sprinker girl. His defense attorney said in court Friday that Brudos decided to change his plea after examination of evidence gathered by investigators and reports submitted by court-appointed psychiatrists who examined Brudos.

Earlier Brudos had pleaded not guilty by reason of insanity to all three indictments.

Reports No Conflict

One of Brudos' attorneys, Dale Drake, said that the psychiatric reports were "substantially the same" and there were apparently no conflicting diagnoses.

The reports, according to Drake, indicated that Brudos did know the difference between right and wrong and would be able to stand his defense.

Funeral Held For Eight Slay Victims

JERSEY CITY, N.J. (AP) — Eight members of the Ralhael Torres family, stabbed and bludgeoned to death last week, were buried Saturday after a funeral Mass here which attracted scores of relatives, neighbors and friends.

Meanwhile, Torres, 40, accused of taking a hunting knife and baseball bat and methodically killing his wife, Maria, 40, and seven of their nine children, remained in poor condition in a hospital. Officials said he was suffering from shock or an overdose of pills.

His son, Raymond, 15, who survived the slaughter at the Torres' apartment, was recovering at the hospital from stab wounds.

A funeral Mass was offered at St. Paul of the Cross Church, and the victims were buried in Holy Cross Cemetery, North Arlington.

1 Dies as Train Derails, 5 Cars Flip on E. Coast

GLENN DALE, MD. (AP) — A crowded New York-to-Miami passenger train jumped the tracks here Saturday, overturning five cars and derailing six others.

One passenger, a priest, died of an apparent heart attack and 120 other persons were sent to hospitals, most with minor injuries. Three persons were reported to have back fractures.

The 18-car train, one of two sections of the Silver Star, left Penn-Central tracks near the Glenn Dale crossing, about 18 miles east of Washington, D.C.

5 Cars Spill

Five cars overturned, and another came to an immediate stop but remained upright. Five more cars bounced over the ties for another mile before coming to a halt.

A Maryland state trooper quoted an eyewitness as saying the tracks buckled in the near 100-degree heat just before the train with 392 passengers moved along its 80-to-85-mile-an-hour course. Another train had moved over the same tracks 10 minutes earlier.

Priest Collapses

The dead man was identified as Father Annunzio Crescenti, 55, of Montclair, N.J. Witnesses said he collapsed after climbing from one of the overturned cars.

The heat felled others, including seven firemen.

"In my car there was a lot of screaming, a lot of panic and a lot of praying," said English Wilder of New York, a passenger in one of the derailed but not overturned cars.
